"A note from our engineering department"

If you live on campus or close to our transmitter site in Gifford Hall, you may have found that your radio receives WRMC-FM in more than one place- or perhaps in a broad band centered around 91.7 mhs. This is a simple case of receiver overloading- your receiver was not designed to cope with a signal of such strength. If this is botherin you, drop us a note at Box 800, Middlebury College, and we'll be pleased to send you information on how to eliminate the problem. Just ask for information sheet #3.

SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE GAMUT

March 16, from 9:30-12:00, WRMC-FM will broadcast a special live show from the Gamut-a small nightclub on the Middlebury campus. Frank Williams and "The Group" will feature female vocalist Lee Diamond on standards, pop and Dixieland music.

CUE

As a public service, WRMC-FM has initiated CUE, a calendar of coming events in the Middlebury area. If your organization would like to publicize anything which would be of interest to the college community, simply print or type your message on a postcard and send it to CUE, Box 800, Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont, 05753. To insure that you get one full week of publicity, be sure to send your postcard at least ten days before the event.

NAEB

The National Association of Educational Broadcasters has put together a series of taped programs to be carried by educational stations. These programs will be aired every day and will appeal to a variety of interests. Examples of some of the programs included are the history of Woodie Guthrie as narrated by Pete Seeger, the search for mental health, interviews with officials of our government and other countries, problems facing the business world today, and the world of drama discussed by leading actors and directors.

MUSIC FACTORY

The Music Factory is a series of recorded programs reviewing much of contemporary music, through such fields as rock, raga, jazz, folk, and classical. Its main purpose is to give the listener an insight into the record industry. These will consist of interviews and examples of the music being discussed. Some of the guests interviewed will be Tim Buckley, Sam the Sham, Odetta, Every Mother's Son, The Cowsills, and officials of several recording studios.
